

Denis Talbot

Denis Talbot is a leading figure in the video gaming and technology industry. He hosted and produced 2,409 live television broadcasts of the show M.Net over the past 16 years. On the strength of his expertise, he was also called before the House of Commons Standing Committee on Canadian Heritage in Ottawa, in October 2012, to provide politicians with a better understanding of the daily reality of Canadian game designers.

For over 10 years, his podcast (Radio Talbot) has also held a top spot in the Technology section of the iTunes Store. With over 30 years of experience in the field of communications, Denis Talbot has produced “making of” documentaries on such triple-A games as Deus Ex: Human Revolution, developed by Eidos Montreal.

A straightforward and open individual who has been nicknamed the “pope” of video gaming, he does not hesitate to state his opinion when reviewing titles and products. He continues to contribute to our enjoyment of gaming and multimedia entertainment with his articles in the Journal de Montréal and on the canoe.ca website.
